The Quaker City Pilgrimage.

RETURN OF THE HOLY LAND EXCURSIONISTS—THE STORY OF THE CRUISE—A SEMI-COMIC PICTURE OF LIFE ON BOARD—THE EXPEDITION NOT ALL COULEUR DE ROSE.

The steamship Quaker City, Captain Duncan, with her excursionists, returned on Tuesday morning to this port, from her cruise to the Holy Land and the Mediterranean. The steamer arrived at Bermuda, from Madeira, on the 11th inst., which island she left for New York on the 15th, with passengers and crew in good health, who yesterday were safely landed at the foot of Wall street, where the Quaker City is now. The steamer is in good condition, and will probably in about two weeks be placed again on the Charleston line. The expedition has terminated successfully and to the satisfaction of the majority of those participating in the same. The Quaker City, with the excursionists on board, it will be recollected, left New York on the 8th of June, with sixty-seven passengers, sixteen of whom were ladies, who, with the exception of seven passengers who left the steamer at Alexandria, in Egypt, returned on board of the vessel, those who left her at Alexandria having returned to the United States by a direct route. At Constantinople a fireman was lost, who one night when going on board, fell overboard and was drowned. No other mishaps occurred during the whole of the trip.

The Quaker City brings back the following list of passengers:

Captain W. R. Hoel, Colonel Jas. K. Hyde, John G. Isham, Dr. A. R. Jackson, Wm. E. James, Colonel P. Kinney, George W. Krause, Charles J. Langdon, Mrs. Mina Larrowe, Daniel D. Leary, E. K. THE CRUISE OF THE QUAKER CITY.

To the Editor of the Herald:—The [illegible] Quaker City has accomplished at last her extraordinary voyage and returned to her old pier at the foot of Wall street, after an absence of five months and a half. The expedition was a success in some respects, in some it was not. Originally it was advertised as a "pleasure excursion." Well, perhaps it was a pleasure excursion, but [illegible] it did not look like one; certainly it did not act like one. Anybody's and everybody's notion of a well-conducted [illegible] is that [illegible] must be a [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] mourners by courtesy, many old people, much solemnity, no levity, and a prayer and a [illegible] withal. Three-fourths of the Quaker City's passengers were between forty and seventy years of age! There was a picnic crowd for you. It may be supposed that the other fourth was composed of young girls. But it was not. It was composed of rusty old [illegible] and a child of six years. Let us average the ages of the Quaker City's pilgrims and set the figures down at fifty years. Is any man insane enough to imagine that this picnic of patriarchs sang, [illegible] love, danced, laughed, told anecdotes, [illegible] in ungodly levity? In my [illegible] they [illegible] in these matters. No doubt it may [illegible] here at home that these frolicsome veterans laughed and sang and romped all day, and day after day, and kept up a noisy [illegible] from one end of the ship to the other; and that they played blind man's buff or danced quadrilles and waltzes on moonlight evenings on the quarter-deck; and that at odd moments of unoccupied time they jotted a laconic item or two in the journals they [illegible] on such an elaborate plan [illegible] and then skurried off to their whist and [illegible] labors under the cabin lamps. If [illegible] were presumed, the presumption was [illegible] The venerable excursionists were not gay and frisky. They played no blind man's buff; they dealt not in whist; they shirked not the tiresome journal, for alas! most of them were writing books. They never [illegible], they [illegible]; they never sang, save in the night prayer-meeting. The pleasure ship was a [illegible] and the pleasure trip was a funeral without a [illegible] [There is nothing exhilarating about a funeral excursion without a corpse.] A free, hearty laugh was a sound that was not heard oftener than once in seven days about those decks or in those cabins; and when it was heard it met with precious little sympathy. The [illegible] danced, on three [illegible] ago (it seems an age), quadrilles, of a single set, made up of three ladies and five gentlemen (the latter with handkerchiefs around their arms to signify their sex), who timed their feet to the solemn wheezing of a melodeon; but even this melancholy orgie was voted to be sinful, and dancing was discontinued.

The pilgrims played dominoes when too much Josephus or Robinson's Holy Land [illegible] or book writing, made recreation necessary, for dominoes is about as mild and sinless a game as any in the world perhaps, excepting always the ineffably insipid diversion they call playing at croquet, which is a game where you don't [illegible] any balls and don't carom on anything of any consequence, and when you are done nobody has to pay, and there are no cigars or drinks to saw off, and, consequently, there isn't any [illegible] whatever about it—they played dominoes till they were rested, and then they blackguarded each other privately till prayer time. When they were not [illegible] sick they were uncommonly prompt when the dinner-gong sounded. Such was our daily life on board the ship—solemnity, decorum, dinner, dominoes, prayers, slander. It was not lively enough for a pleasure trip; but if we had only had a corpse it would have made a gorgeous funeral excursion. It is all over now; but when I look back, the idea of these venerable fossils skipping forth on a six months' picnic, seems exquisitely ludicrous. The advertised title of the expedition —"The Grand Holy Land Pleasure Excursion"—was a ghastly misnomer. "The Grand Holy Land Funeral Procession" would have been better—much better.

As advertised, the "Plymouth Collection of Hymns" was used on board. We had a prayer meeting every night. On this part of the subject I wish to touch very lightly. I could not quarrel, no one could quarrel with the prayer meetings. We are all taught to respect these things. I merely mention them as being an unique feature in pleasure excursions, and worthy of imitation on future picnics. There were those in the ship's company who attributed the fact that we had a steady siege of storms and head-winds for five mortal months solely to the prayer meetings. But I was not of that faction. There were those who were abandoned enough to believe that some time or other a particularly aggravating and long-drawn prayer meeting would bring down a storm that would sink the ship. I was not of that party either. I said all along that we had'nt prayer meetings enough; we ought to have them before breakfast, and between meals, and pretty much all the time. Those were my sentiments. I do not brag, but those were certainly my sentiments. The argument that they prayed the same old prayers over again every night was nothing to me. I knew that if they only performed oftener and held out long enough, they were bound to start something fresh after a while. There is nothing that gives startling variety to a picnic like prayer meetings. Especially when the "Plymouth Collection" is used, because as a general thing the tunes are a shade too complicated for the excursionists, and so, when they are properly tangled, they are exceedingly lively.

Wherever we went in Europe, Asia or Africa, we made a sensation, and I suppose I may add, created a famine. None of us had ever been anywhere before; we all hailed from the interior; travel was a wild novelty to us, and we conducted ourselves in accordance with the natural instincts that were in us, and trammeled ourselves with no ceremonies, no conventionalities. We always took care to make it understood that we were Americans—Americans! When we found that a good many foreigners had hardly ever heard of America, and that a good many more knew it only as a barbarous province away off somewhere, that had lately been at war with somebody, we pitied the ignorance of the Old World, but [illegible] jot of our [illegible]. Many and many a simple community in the Eastern Hemisphere will remember for years the incursion of the [illegible] horde in the year of our Lord 1867, [illegible] themselves Americans, and [illegible] in some unaccountable way that they had a right to be proud of it. We [illegible] created [illegible] partly because the coffee on the Quaker City was unendurable, and sometimes the [illegible] fare was not strictly first class; and partly because one naturally tires of sitting at the [illegible] board and eating [illegible] the [illegible]

The people of those foreign countries are very, very ignorant. They looked [illegible] at the costumes we had brought from the wilds of America. They observed [illegible] times. They noticed that we looked out for expenses and got what we conveniently could [illegible] a franc, and wondered where in the [illegible] we [illegible] from. In Paris they just simply [illegible] their eyes and stared when we [illegible] to them in French. We never did [illegible] in making those idiots understand their own language. One of our passengers said to a shopkeeper, in [illegible] to a proposition to buy a pair of [illegible] "Aloug [illegible] day," and would you [illegible] that [illegible] a born Frenchman [illegible] had to [illegible] had been [illegible] how, that [illegible] Parisian French and Quaker City [illegible]

The people [illegible] at us [illegible] stared at [illegible] We [illegible] rather [illegible] too, [illegible] we got [illegible] because we bore [illegible] with [illegible] greater [illegible] until we [illegible] took kindly to the [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] visited. When we left the [illegible] capotes and used [illegible] When we came [illegible] were [illegible] with [illegible] of the [illegible] France and [illegible] costumes. In Italy they [illegible] distemper. "Garibaldi [illegible]" and [illegible] look for any [illegible] uniform. [illegible] any [illegible] We got no fresh [illegible] but little [illegible] are, yellow [illegible] They [illegible] go through [illegible] [illegible] and survive.

And then we went to see the [illegible] We just [illegible] on him [illegible] we had [illegible] had finished our [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] programme. We did not care [illegible] any [illegible] at all. We [illegible] [illegible] If the authorities of New York [illegible] badly we had it, they would have [illegible] here.

We failed to see the ship [illegible] came to sell the ship [illegible] object of the excursion [illegible] of course to know that we failed to sell her [illegible] necessarily be of interest to the public. We [illegible] to sell the ship and then [illegible] That would have [illegible] excursion at any rate.

The grand pilgrimage is over. Good-by to it, and a pleasant memory to it. I am able to say in all kindness, I bear no malice, no ill-will towards any individual that was connected with it, either as passenger or officer. [illegible] I did not like at all yesterday I like very well to-day, now that I am at home; and always [illegible] after I shall be able to [illegible] fun at that [illegible] gang if the spirit so moves me to do [illegible] ever saying a malicious word. The expedition accomplished all that the programme promised that it should accomplish, and we ought all to be satisfied with the management of the [illegible] that such pleasure excursions as this are [illegible] ted to be suffocated with pleasure, I deny; and that a party [illegible] "ill-fitted," by age and native solemnity, for [illegible] around the world on a giddy picnic, ever [illegible] to see in a ship [illegible] the world [illegible], I [illegible] also, most [illegible] Herald.

[The above was evidently written by "Mark Twain."]

BREACH LOADING ARMS.—The report of Gen. Dyer, Chief of the Military Ordnance [illegible], states that the conversion of Springfield rifle muskets into breech-loaders has been going on [illegible] at the Springfield Armory. The [illegible] ion of the officers who have used [illegible] highly favorable to their efficiency. They are simple, strong, not liable to get out of [illegible] extremely accurate in firing. These [illegible] muskets to the number of 50,000 will soon be issued to the troops, and it is recommended that their manufacture be continued.

Some of the American journals continue their attacks upon Dickens in retaliation for what he has said in some of his books about America. These attacks are quite ridiculous. If the American Notes treated some of our points with [illegible] less severity, American travelers in England have returned the compliment. Dickens never said anything more severe about America than Hawthorne said about England.

General Sherman.

Though the Democrats have pretended to claim Gen. Sherman, and have garbled portions of his late address before the Society of the Army of the Tennessee to support their pretensions, a fair perusal of that able production will show them that they cannot find much comfort in the utterances of the second soldier of the Republic. While the Democratic papers have quoted extracts from the [illegible] which illustrate the magnanimity of the great soldier toward the defeated rebels—sentiments which are worthy of Gen. Sherman, and which the whole nation has both approved and put into practice—it is noticeable that they have carefully avoided all the passages which speak of the wickedness of the rebellion and the infamy of the [illegible] which it was intended to uphold and [illegible]. Alluding to the condition of the South Gen. Sherman said: "Ruin, poverty and [illegible] everywhere, and now pestilence adding the very cap sheaf to their misery; her proud men begging for pardon and appealing for permission to raise food for their children, her five millions of slaves free, and their value lost to their former masters. How any Southern man, with [illegible] plain and palpable everywhere staring him in the face, and recorded forever in the book of history, can still boast of his 'lost cause,' or [illegible] of it in any language other than of shame [illegible] my understanding, and instead of [illegible] I know that their lost cause will [illegible] into infamy, as time more [illegible] its hidden mysteries and reveals [illegible] to the light of day." This is a passage [illegible] seen in none of the Democratic papers which have been parading extracts from Gen. Sherman's speech to show his supposed hostility to the [illegible].

"Let us know," says this illustrious soldier, [illegible] our individual person, that system [illegible] guided our fathers [illegible] the system which had [illegible] India; the system which combined [illegible] the sympathetic wisdom of the [illegible]; the [illegible] yet kindling with [illegible] always hastening reform, yet always [illegible] absolute equality [illegible] guaranteeing absolute [illegible] the inexorable restrictions [illegible] theoretical, yet in [illegible] the inner [illegible] of his destiny, and yet [illegible] to the outer world, [illegible] divine and human. This system was [illegible] part of our widely extended [illegible] our freedom [illegible] at the South [illegible] join with us in this [illegible] I, for one, would welcome them [illegible] not one [illegible] reason, and lead [illegible]. But, if like spoiled children [illegible] to the [illegible] past and shut [illegible], I would call their attention [illegible] that has [illegible] the Atlantic to the Pacific, [illegible] and New South." They [illegible] will be as vain [illegible] to try and [illegible] the Army of the [illegible] the length and breadth of [illegible] through [illegible] are now represented by the [illegible] harsh, fanatical, [illegible] nothing more [illegible] will take nothing less. And [illegible] this able General [illegible] any comfort [illegible] utterances in his address, [illegible] in their feelings.

[illegible] and his Friends.—It is reported in late [illegible] that another effort is making to [illegible] Seymour of New York to become the Democratic candidate for President. Some [illegible] a formal and very explicit [illegible] to be a candidate; but this [illegible] the cunning of a skillful politician [illegible] such a course to cause [illegible] sought after the more. Of course no one [illegible] that this declination was intended to be [illegible] irrevocable; it was merely a cunning [illegible] the attention of his party [illegible] himself. Seymour is probably the [illegible] man his party could put in [illegible]. His [illegible] are flexible enough to suit any [illegible]; he can represent what [illegible] calls the "regenerated Democracy," or, if [illegible] requires it, he can [illegible] of those who have faith in the revival of the "lost cause," and are working for that object. During the war he did all he could to paralyze the Union [illegible]; he opposed the draft and hindered its execution, and [illegible] by his "friends" who undertook a diversion in favor of the rebel armies by [illegible] the riot in New York during the campaign of Gettysburg. The remembrance of these [illegible] will [illegible] him to the intelligent and virtuous Democracy of the Five Points and Mackerelville, and no doubt he could obtain from that [illegible] constituency a larger majority than any other man who could be named.

The Throne of France.—The Prince Imperial, the only child of Louis Napoleon, is in delicate health. For 160 years no monarch has been succeeded by his son. Thus, Louis XIV was the grandson of Louis XII; Louis XV was the grandson of Louis XIV; Louis XVI was the grandson of Louis XV; Louis XVIII was the brother of Louis XVI, Louis XVII dying in childhood, and never came to the throne. The successor of Louis XVIII was his brother, Charles X. His successor was his cousin, Louis Philippe. Napoleon I was [illegible], not by his son, Napoleon II, but by his nephew, Napoleon three. The heir of Louis Philippe, the Duke of Orleans, was killed by being thrown out of his carriage. The heir and son of Charles X, the Duke of Berri, was assassinated while assisting his wife into a carriage at the Paris Opera House. The present heir to the Bourbons is the Count de Bordeaux, who was born after the assassination of his father, the Duke de Berri.

Distilleries in Great Britain.—William Prescott Smith, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Third District of Maryland, visited Europe last summer, and while there, ascertained that there are only seven distilleries in England, but three hundred in Scotland and Ireland together. The government tax levied there on spirits is equal to $2.80 per wine gallon.

Spirit of the Press.

A few days ago we made allusion to the "platform" which has been put forth by the "enlightened" Democratic Club at Albany, showing that the lack of intelligence which it evinces would be disgraceful to Southern negroes (begging the pardon of the negroes for the comparison). The Albany Journal says of this platform:

The issue is made by the Albany friends of the "lost cause," and their club have repeated the the old story of their love for the Constitution which they endeavored to destroy in 1861; scold about the resolutions of '98; go in for foreign labor against American products and industry; and oppose all our commercial treaties with most foreign nations, if the following from the sixth resolution has any sensible interpretation, viz: "unceasing political hostility" against the Union party because of "odious alliances with the traditional enemies of republican institutions." As there seems to be an absence of political science throughout their resolutions, it is likely that our political neophytes are about to propose some new phase of dealing on the "outside," to develope some new theory of free trade matured by the cogitation of the Richmond sages, which Grant's "unconstitutional" advance prevented from being carried into effect by the blockade runners.

The Democrat has its usual article on "negro equality," spun out this time to about twice its usual length. The Unionist thus states the case for the Democrat's consideration:

The editor of the Albany Democrat goes on with his senseless balderdash concerning negro equality. We will supply him with an illustration as related to us: At their celebration last Wednesday, in this city, while the colored people distinguished themselves by the deportment of gentlemen and ladies, a Democratic editor sat in the back part of the house so deplorably drunk that he could hardly hold up his head or keep down the rebellious substances which he had lately devoured. Now, does the editor of the Democrat think that there was any negro present, so black, so humble, so low-spirited, that he would acknowledge equality with, or even similarity to that man?

You, sir, had better let the negroes alone, and address yourself to the elevation of your own debased political associates. When you shall have taught all of them their letters, and the rudiments of civilization, it will be time, perhaps, to worry about the inferiority of the negroes, who already have intelligence and manhood enough to despise your barbarous party.

Alluding to the painful efforts which the Democratic politicians are making to find a candidate for President, the State Journal says:

The great Democracy is making a sort of spectacle of itself running around for a candidate for the next Presidency. For the present it seems to be going upon the theory that it is better to have a candidate possessing some commendable appearance, and the reserving of the abomination for the platform after the fashion of the attempt with McClellan. But the Union and war record of Mac. was not sufficient to balance the pusillanimity of the platform, and therefore it proved a great failure. They are now trying to better their condition by running after and making overtures to Union Generals. Hence their attempts to inveigle Hancock and others of the Union General who made some reputation in thrashing the Democrats and Confederates attempt to destroy the Government. But in case they fail to suit themselves upon this dodge, they will be forced to fall back on the other alternative of putting the appearance of respectability in the platform, and [illegible] it with an abominable candidate. In this case the search will be of course for their most abominable candidate.

The Courier is calling lustily to its partizans to circulate Democratic papers. It thinks much may be done for the party by this action. Intelligent discussion is what the Courier wants to see. Just to exhibit a sample of the style which that paper thinks will be so useful to its party, we copy from the article it publishes on this subject the following very lucid paragraph:

We are satisfied that much good could be done by every Democrat taking one or more Democratic newspapers, and passing them around his honest republican neighbors. Our principles being correct, we have all to gain and nothing to loose by discussion. That we will ultimately triumph everywhere we have confidence, as "truth is mighty and will prevail, but that triumph must be hastened by agitation discussion, and the distribution of matter that will present the living issues to the minds of the people.

Let the Courier flourish; alone and unaided it will surely bring about a complete revolution in politics.

The Record has the following on the subject of railroads:

We individually want connection with the outside world by means of railroads. If the Humboldt road is the best we want it built; if a road can be built built direct to California and do as good, we much prefer it. It would suit us to have Southern Oregon brought into market, but if a road that way is impracticable let us have one to Humboldt. The fact is, there must be roads on the east and west sides of the river, and while we expect ours to be built first, we want the other built ours. Then Eastern Oregon, Washington and Idaho should have the Salt Lake Branch, and we want to know why in the name of [illegible] everybody be as clever as we are, and favor every project that has merit in it, without [illegible] it to fill the small grooves their fancy [illegible] for [illegible] to traverse.

National Banks.

By the report of the Comptroller of the Treasury it appears that the number of National Banks now organized and in operation is 1,672. Their paid in capital amounts to $424,204,661. Of these Banks New York has 314, Massachusetts 258, and Pennsylvania 203. Since the first bank organization was started under the present system, over four years ago, only ten banking associations have failed; and in these cases no loss will be sustained by the bill holders, as the bonds deposited as security for the circulation will realize a surplus of $250,000. It has been provided by act of Congress, and held by the Supreme Court, that the shares in these banking associations may be subjected to State taxation. This tax is not to be greater than that assessed on other moneyed capital in the State, nor to exceed the rate on shares of stock of State banks. At the same time the banks are subject to Federal taxation as follows: First, a duty of one half of one per centum each half year on the average amount of notes in circulation; second, a duty of one quarter of one per centum each half year on the average amount of their deposits; and third, a duty of one quarter of one per centum each half year upon the average amount of their capital stock beyond the amount invested in United States bonds. Thus an aggregate tax, State and Federal, of four to seven per cent. is laid upon the banks. The advocates of the banking system rely upon these facts to show that the banks ought to be continued; claiming that if greenbacks could be legally substituted for national bank notes, the interest saved by the Government on the bonds on which the bank notes are based, would be less than is now realized by the Government from banks in the shape of taxation. But another and stronger reason is urged against the substitution. It was provided in the Act under which the greenbacks were issued, that the total amount should never exceed $450,000,000; and as there is nearly that amount now in circulation, it is urged that there can be no further issue to supply the place of the national bank notes without a wanton violation of the conditions on which the legal tender notes were issued by the Government.

Further experiments and on a much more extensive scale than anything hitherto undertaken, are about being carried out with regard to the use of petroleum for generating steam. The steamship Island City is being fitted at Boston with Foote's apparatus for burning petroleum, for the purpose of making a trans-Atlantic trip to further test the merits of the invention. She will take on board a supply of fuel for an extended trip, and will visit New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other Atlantic ports, and then make the ocean trip. The liquid fuel for this proposed trip will be confined in iron tanks, and the displacement in the vessel by it will be very small.

Miss Rebecca Clapp, nearly ninety-one years old, walked from New Braintree to West Brookfield, Mass., seven miles, on the last day of October, to pay her taxes and save the discount. She carried with her a heavy bundle, and the next day walked home. Miss Clapp has accumulated a property of $10,000, and owns a large farm on which she lives alone.

STATE ITEMS.

The streets of Albany are to be improved by gravelled cross-walks.

The new flouring mill at Lafayette is about ready to commence operations.

More snow fell south of here than at this point. On Saturday it was six inches deep at Salem.

Ice is frozen at Salem to the thickness of three inches. A supply is being secured for summer.

The number of students in Willamette University, including the medical and preparatory classes, is about 200.

Dr. Wythe of Salem is continuing his lectures on the "Pilgrim's Progress," with increasing interest as he proceeds.

The Odd Fellows of Salem are preparing a reading room, which will be well finished and supplied with miscellaneous reading matter.

They have a Dramatic Troupe at Salem, composed of citizens and citizenesses, which is furnishing an abundance of amusement for the town.

The following have been elected city officers at Salem: C. S. Woodworth, City Surveyor; Wm. Miller, Supervisor of Roads and Street Commissioner; George P. Holman, City Attorney.

The number of teachers and scholars in the Methodist Sunday School at Salem is 482. The total attendance during the year was 12,230. This is probably the largest Sunday School in the State.

The Unionist learns that the Oregon Herald company have contracted for a pair of pantaloons, and to have worked thereon, in large red letters, in the most conspicuous quarter, "Beriah Brown, Editor!"

A Eugene paper is savage upon Jackson county for its opposition to certain railroad schemes. It says rather viciously, that a committee recently appointed to draw up and present a report on the railroad question, will probably "report against the practice of building railroads or wagon roads, and favoring the general use of trails and foot logs."

The Baptist Convention at Brownsville, says a correspondent of the Unionist, was a failure. It was called for the purpose of trying to unite the different associations in the State, which are generally understood to have become separated on account of politics. There was, however, but one delegate present from any other association; so nothing was done.

Rev. P. S. Knight has been delivering a course of lectures on Paine's "Age of Reason." The Unionist of Monday says: The lecture last night had relation to the great Skeptic's caviling at the books of Prophecy. Mr. Knight's argument was close, analytical and convincing, manifesting a laborious study and complete familiarity with Biblical history, as well as with the events in chronology which the prophets foretold.

The National Debt.

Robert J. Walker, who, while a resident of Mississippi, successfully fought the Jeff. Davis scheme of State repudiation, has written a long and able letter, addressed to the people of the United States, on the subject of the national finances. He was Secretary of the United States Treasury during President Polk's administration, and after the commencement of the late rebellion, was sent abroad as the agent of the Federal Government to negotiate Government bonds. We think he still claims to be a Democrat, but the schemes of Pendleton and others to repudiate the national debt by a compulsory substitution of greenbacks for bonds, meet with no favor from him. He says:

Those, generally, who oppose contraction, or resumption, favor what they call expansion, and many of them would pay off our whole five-twenty loan in greenbacks. Now, this with our present greenbacks, and the convertible seven-thirties would make a total greenback currency of nearly two billions of dollars, and with the national bank currency, redeemable in greenbacks, nearly twenty-three hundred millions of currency, mere naked promises of payment, fundable in none of the stocks of the Government. Now, our present currency, bank and legal tenders, is worth in gold nearly $500,000,000. Would the expanded currency be worth that much? I think its first value would be much less, and that it would go on constantly diminishing in value until it would, in no brief period, share the fate of French assignats and Continental money. There would be a nominal but no real available expansion of the currency, for the increased amount would purchase less than the former, but far more valuable circulation. Such a system, would, in fact, be depreciation only—a vast addition to the volume of the currency, but a diminution of its aggregate value. Such a currency would not be worth at the start twenty cents on the dollar in gold. The first result would be to increase the expenses of the Government and of living nearly four fold, with no corresponding increase of wages, or of revenue. The expenses of the Government, paid in this depreciated currency, would swell to nearly two billions a year; and the excess of our annual expenditures over receipts would exceed a billion dollars a year, and this sum would be swelling yearly, with the necessary demand for a further inflation until the whole mass would become worthless, and leave the Government and people without money or credit. The inflation of an irredeemable paper currency necessarily leads to depreciation, and can end only in repudiation and bankruptcy. How can it be otherwise? How can we contract when there are no bonds in which the currency can be funded, or bonds the value of which has been destroyed by the action of the Government? And, if contraction is grievous, when our currency is $500,000,000 or $600,000,000, how infinitely more oppressive will contraction become, when the currency is increased to $1,000,000,000 or $2,000,000,000. But, let us see what the effect of this depreciation would be on present values. Our national bank notes and legal tenders amount to near $700,000,000, now worth about $500,000,000 in gold to those who hold them. The gold value of this money, at 20 cents on the dollar on gold, would be only $140,000,000, thus annihilating at a blow values to the extent of $360,000,000. The [illegible] of value is in the money, the only money held by the people of the United States. This would reduce hundreds of thousands to want and bankruptcy. It would convulse and demoralize the whole country, and cause the pillars of the Government to rock upon their base. But, the annihilation of values would not be confined to the money of the people, but would extend to our $2,000,000,000 bonds, worth now to the holders $1,400,000,000 in gold. But by the depreciation process these bonds, or their substitute in currency, would not exceed 20 cents on the dollar in gold, or $400,000,000. Here is a loss of $1,000,000,000, which, added to the loss on currency, annihilates value to the extent of $1,360,000,000 on gold, or its equivalent. Recollect that the values thus annihilated constitute the active capital, the money, and negotiable credits of the people. Why, the revulsion would be fearful, and the burning lava of a nation's wrath would roll over the authors of the dread catastrophe.

The French at Rome.

As the French are sending more troops to Rome, the following extracts from Paris journals are of interest. The Pays says:

From intelligence we have received we are enabled to announce that the French troops will not prolong their stay at Rome. One division will, however, still remain at Civita Vecchia, to await there the effect produced upon the Party of Action by the energetic conduct of the King of Italy, and also to be prepared for any eventualities.

But the Patrie says:

After the defeat of the revolutionary army, and the recall of the Italian troops, there yet remains a victory for the Italian Government to achieve, namely: to appease the public mind in the Italian Provinces and the Roman States, and we hope that France and Italy will remain, therefore, until the Roman Government has reorganized its local administrations, and effaced all traces of the recent conflicts.

THE CATHOLIC PRESS—ITALY TO BE DISMEMBERED.

It will be seen by the following extracts from the French Roman Catholic organs that they represent, and in whose interest the expedition was undertaken, think that nothing has been done by the victory of Mentana unless the unity of Italy is broken up.

The Union says: "There is only one course to be adopted—to break up Italian unity, which is a pest for Italy, a menace for France, a permanent peril for Europe, and an insult to civilization."

The Monde, another Catholic organ, also thinks that nothing has been gained if things are allowed to remain as they are: "The French Government, it says, believes in the possibility of producing concord between the Italian revolutionists and the church. It makes wreck on this Utopia. It has been struggling for the last twenty years for this object, and yet things remain as they were in 1848."

Surgeant Morrison, who has charge of the Government property on Goat Island, at Newport, R. I., is 83 years old, and the senior officer of the army on the active list. He is a native of Scotland, and entered the British army at 15, and after 17 years of service enlisted in the American army, and has been a soldier ever since. Goat Island has been under his command for 14 years, and for 18 years previously he had charge of all the fortifications in New York harbor.

First National Bank of Idaho—Boise City, I. T.—Organized March 11th, 1867, (with circulation) under Act of Congress, approved June 3d, 1864. Authorized capital $500,000. Paid up capital $100,000. B. M. DuRell, President. C. W. Moore, Cashier. Collections of Notes and Accounts on the principal places of Idaho Territory promptly attended to. Exchange for Coin or Currency on this Bank can be purchased of Ladd & Tilton, Portland, Oregon.

SKATES ARE VERY MUCH IN DEMAND, and from appearances at the "Lake" yesterday there must have been a great many skates sold. Whilst every person is going skating, they should not neglect to take care of their person, which they can easily do by calling at KOHN & FISHEL'S and get a good Overcoat or Beaver Suit, Cloth Gloves, and everything to keep a man or woman comfortable.

Buchtel's Photograph Gallery is the only establishment in Oregon that is thoroughly prepared to do all the different styles of work in the art. Photographs from card to life size. The new cabinet cards, &c., &c. Small pictures enlarged (retouched in India ink—painted in water-colors or oil by Mrs. S. J. Rumsey. Pictures that are fading can be reproduced in this way. All negatives taken in this gallery will be carefully preserved, and additional copies had. I have now on hand a very large collection of negatives, the names of which are recorded alphabetically in a book for that purpose that can be seen in the reception room.

A PERSONAL DEVIL.—Some time ago an article from the pen of Dr. Benson appeared in the [illegible], in which the writer's belief in a "personal devil" was asserted very emphatically. He said: "Those who would sub[illegible] and etherealize the Christian's faith have contended that Satan and all cognate terms are employed simply [illegible] an evil or wicked principle. They deny the [illegible] of a personal devil. But why, or on what authority are such denials made? Surely the Scriptures give no warrant for such a conclusion. In every portion of God's word, Satan or the devil, is spoken of as a person [illegible] John the Baptist or Christ. A method of biblical interpretation which will eliminate Satan from the Christian's system of faith, will equally serve to dispose of any other important doctrine in the [illegible]." The Napa Register, after quoting the above and something more from the same article, remarks, without much fear of his "personal" majesty it [illegible], as follows: "It is gratifying to see Brother Benson thus comes to the devil's rescue. The time is ripe for a reform in the lax theology of the day. We need a tough and substantial devil—"as much a person as M[illegible]"—and none of your milk-and-water, [illegible] devils of theory and moonshine, that wouldn't scare your grandmother's cat. The great mass of men have come not only not to fear him, but even to deny his [illegible] existence, and Brother Benson [illegible] the devil's thanks and our own for setting him rectus in curia, by [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] good old [illegible]. The evidence for the existence of evil [illegible] is just as strong as that in proof of the existence of good ones, and we have no better ground for denying the personality of the one than of the other. What would [illegible] be without [illegible]. And how [illegible] would the world grow worse, if [illegible] a good, solid, reliable devil! True it is, Old [illegible] but then think of the [illegible] that he frightens into [illegible]. We go in strongly for his personality, and never shall his tail be docked, or his horns lopped an inch, with our consent."

A FEW [illegible] in our report [illegible] of Wednesday evening, which may be attributed partly to the fact that [illegible] was hurried through in a short time and partly to the want of careful proof reading. The more important errors we correct as follows: The petition from Engine Co. No. 4, for an appropriation of $50 per month to defray [illegible] expenses, was referred to the committee on Fire and Water, instead of [illegible]. The report of the City Treasurer [illegible] showing [illegible] in the treasury of $4,887, [illegible] of $4,013 61 in general, special and [illegible] funds. In the matter of claims against the city and bills ordered paid, errors were made in the following same which we here state correctly: G. H. Belden, City Surveyor, $140; W. T. [illegible], $57; Thos. Bush, $7 [illegible] Gas Co. for lighting and turning off [illegible] lamps, $300; Gas Co. for gas for Council chamber [illegible] Butler, [illegible] McCor[illegible], W. S. Caldwell, for stamps, [illegible] during the year, $3 75. There were also a few errors in the initials of person's names, nearly all of which [illegible] well as most of the [illegible] were typo[illegible].

[illegible]—Mr. W. P. D[illegible] met with a very painful accident [illegible] from falling down a flight of stairs. Those who are acquainted with him will [illegible] cripple, and only able to get about, with some difficulty, on crutches. On the [illegible] the [illegible] his footing and fell to the foot of the [illegible] breaking his left leg above the knee and [illegible] [illegible] his other injuries. His former injury—a partial paralysis [illegible] from a shock to the [illegible] column—[illegible] eleven years ago last New Years day, by the [illegible] of a roof on which he was at work, and has ever since disqualified him for anything but the lightest employment. It is possible that his paralytic state may [illegible] influence upon his present injuries. In [illegible] with his friends and acquaintances, we [illegible] his misfortunes.

We are [illegible] that [illegible] to secure the hall, so that it will be as comfortable as the [illegible] in that respect. Of the concert, we need [illegible] further than that the [illegible] has been [illegible] with that care which [illegible] marked the public performances of the Society. The pieces for to-night's performance are selected from the most [illegible] and with a view to gratify the public taste. We shall no doubt witness a full [illegible] and another [illegible] triumph for the [illegible].

THE WEATHER [illegible] was a [illegible] improvement on [illegible] or four preceding [illegible], in a climatic point of view. ROAD WORK NEEDED.—Mr. Jamison arrived from Forest Grove and Hillsboro, yesterday, reporting the roads extremely rough and crossed in places with fallen trees. CAPITOL, OLYMPIA, Dec. 11th, 1867.

DR. GREEN, Portland—Sir: I have been in the habit of using the "HENLEY ROYAL BALSAM" in my family, who reside at Wallula, Walla Walla county, W. T. I am now at Olympia, attending the present session of the Legislature, and the climate is so different from that of Walla Walla county that I have taken cold, and I have endeavored to purchase some of the medicine here but was unable to do so. Please send a bottle up immediately by mail. I have used nothing else in my family and cannot get along without it. Yours truly,

Greeley on the Political Phase of the Temperance Question.

The Boston Transcript lately published the following:

What would be the verdict of history upon a political party that carried the Republic safely through a civil war, and then lost its influence in the nation by attempts to regulate the sale of cider and lager beer?

To this Greeley responds as follows:

Attempts to regulate the sale of alcoholic beverages are exactly what the Transcript and its P. L. L. confederate have all along professed to uphold. Gov. Andrew, as their spokesman, last winter proclaimed himself the advocate of a stringent excise act. He ably argued that such an act would be more effective in suppressing intemperance and restricting drinking than any act of Prohibition. The people of Massachusetts have trusted to such assurances and given their legislation over into the P. L. L.'s hands. Perhaps this was wise—perhaps not. We wait to see. But mind that attempts to regulate the liquor traffic are in your line, not ours. We believe in cutting that liquor dog's tail off right behind the ears.

But the Transcript falsely assumes that some one has attempted to commit the Republican party to our theories or notions touching the liquor traffic. Whatever may be true of the devotees of license, that is not true of the Tribune. The liquor question was dragged into the first delegated Republican State Convention we ever attended—that of 1855: we resisted and beat it, insisting that no resolve on the subject should be passed—that each Republican should be left free to favor regulation, prohibition, or license, as he should deem best. From that hour the question never came up, so far as we are aware, in a Republican Convention till this year, when (no one from the Tribune being a delegate,) the friends of free drinking, on Sundays and week days alike, crowded through at the last moment a resolve favoring their view of the subject. It did not express the sentiment of the Convention, which was emphatically in favor of leaving the whole subject outside of Republican Conventions; and it did not save a hundred liquor votes to the Republican ticket, while it repelled many zealous temperance men. We promptly repudiated, as an attempt to commit the Republican party to a particular course on a subject whereon Republicans notoriously differed, and had a right to differ. No man was ever required, as a Republican, to be for or against license or prohibition; and the interpolation of the liquor question into our councils could not be other than disastrous. Our view of the matter is precisely that proclaimed by the Republicans of Massachusetts in an excellent resolution of their late State Convention. We stand, as a Republican, on that resolve; where stands the Transcript?

Miscellaneous Items.

Dickens writes to a Montreal friend that he expects to give a few readings in Canada during April.

It is a singular fact that ladies who know how to preserve everything else can't preserve their tempers. Yet it may easily be done on the self-sealing principle. It is only to keep the mouth of the vessel tightly closed.

A lady, out with her little boy and girl, bought him a [illegible] balloon, which escaped him and flew up into the air. The girl seeing the tears in his eyes, said: "Never mind, Neddy; when you die and go to heaven, you'll git it."

Children in mission schools are pretty sharp sometimes, and show it in rather unexpected ways. A boy whose teacher was absent pretty often, came to the superintendent with the request, "Say, Mister, can't you give me a regular man? I am tired of being shoved around so."

The Meridian (Miss.) Gazette states that the Union soldiers buried at that place are being exhumed, and their remains conveyed to Vicksburg for interment in the Government cemetery. All buried south of Marion are sent to Vicksburg, and all north are sent to Corinth.

The largest war vessel afloat is said to be the steam frigate Wampanoag, which will soon make a trial trip from the Brooklyn Navy Yard. She is 354 feet long. Her engines and boiler occupy 160 feet of this length; her engines are in the aggregate of 5,000-horse power, having two 100 inch cylinders, eight main boilers, and two super heaters. She carries 10 nine-inch Dahlgren, two 100-pound Parrots forward, and two howitzers aft. Her full complement of men is about 500, and of these she has now on board 416, all told. The engineer's department alone calls for 150 men, and 129 are now at work.

DR. C. W. COOL,
DENTIST.

THOSE WHO DESIRE FIRST-CLASS DENTAL SERVICE might do well to give him a call. He is making a NEW AND IMPROVED VULCANITE PLATE. The nature of his improvement consists in lining the entire concave surface with fine gold; it makes the plate twice as strong and one-third times thinner than the common vulcanite plate. It also prevents the acids of the mouth from roughing the plate, and from turning it black, which is a common occurrence. One half of the common vulcanite plates turn black after being in use a short time, particularly where tobacco is used for smoking. His new style of plate admits of a very fine finish on the concave or palate surface. His office is the only place where such work can be had. The improvement is his own invention, for which he has received, December 3d, 1867, a patent from the United States Patent Office. He has been making this style of work for the last two and a half years, and the specimens of the work can be seen at his office. This work has given satisfaction in every case.

PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER.

THE UNIVERSAL REMEDY FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL COMPLAINTS!

At this period there are but few of the human race unacquainted with the merits of the Pain Killer; but while some extol it as a liniment, they know but little of its power in easing pain when taken internally, while others use it internally with great success, but are equally ignorant of its healing virtues when applied externally. We therefore wish to say to all that it is equally successful whether used internally or externally, and it stands alone, unrivalled by all the great catalogue of Family Medicines, and its sale is universal and immense. The demand for it from India and other foreign countries is equal to the demand at home, and it has been as known in those far off places by its merits.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU is pleasant in taste and odor, free from all injurious properties, and immediate in its action.

Just Cause for being Alarmed.—When a Cough has been running for a long time, and you begin to feel a pain setting in upon your lungs, attended with tightness across the chest, it is high time that you should awaken to the danger of your disease, which is fast running into Consumption. Now, before it is too late, use ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM, which will cure the disease, and all will be well with you. For sale by the Dealers in Family Medicines generally.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU gives health and vigor to the frame and bloom to the pallid cheek. Debility is accompanied by many alarming symptoms, and if no treatment is submitted to, consumption, insanity, or epileptic fits ensue.

Hungarian and American Treason

The Chicago Post draws a parallel between the manner of rewarding traitors in Hungary and America as follows

"The traitor Georgey the Benedict Arnold of Hungary had the impudence to appear among the assemblage of listeners in the Hungarian House of Deputies When discovered, all business was suspended, and a deathly silence prevailed Then commenced an angry murmuring throughout the audience and some one called out "Georgey is here!" "Turn out the traitor" etc. In the midst of the uproar and confusion Georgey sneaked out of the house

Fifteen years have elapsed since this man sold the army under his command to the Austrian Government for gold He betrayed his native land into the hands of her enemies when political independence was almost within her grasp All of that period has been spent in London living in great obscurity For a long time he could not show his face in the streets without being hissed and hooted at by the mob, and upon one occasion the police had to interfere to save him from being roughly handled, and perhaps killed, by the indignant populace

It is said that the blood money which he received from the Austrians is nearly exhausted, and that he is seeking a place under the present Hungarian Government as an additional reward for his services to the Empire. According to present appearances he is more likely to get his [illegible] in the shape of a Hungarian bullet

What would the compatriots of Kossuth think of the perfect immunity which traitors enjoy in [illegible] America? What of a state of political affairs which permits men like Beauregard, Mosby and Semmes to be received and welcomed, dined and wined, flattered and caressed" What would [illegible] friend that there is a party in favor of restoring just such men as Georgey to all the rights and privileges of citizenship, and even of putting the Government into their hands? They [illegible] be apt to [illegible] that Democracy was a [illegible], and that a strange revolution had taken [illegible] in the land that sheltered Hungarian exiles [illegible]

HIRAM SMITH'S

Ophthalmic Panacea!

IN BRINGING THE ABOVE-NAMED REMEDY to the notice of the Public, the Proprietor begs to state a few facts in relation to it, as follows:

It originated in Prussia, where the science of Medicine is so thoroughly taught and practised but owing to the poverty of its discoverer its wonderful properties were not known beyond the limited circle of his acquaintance, in which however it proved itself absolutely infallible in eradicating disease from the eyes.

He immigrated to this country bringing his discovery with him but seems to have been indifferent to the propriety of giving it general and wide-spread circulation and, as previously in his native country seemed only desirous of using it among his friends and neighbors.

The present proprietor was one of those neighbors, and for many years was a witness to its wonderful efficacy, and after ineffectual efforts to persuade the inventor to more widely disseminate the knowledge of its virtues, finally [illegible] himself the [illegible] of its preparation

And now, while he does not deny that he hopes and expects to make money by its sale he must yet lay claim to a desire to benefit his fellows by presenting to them a remedy which does and will cure where medical aid and all experience have failed

He wishes it to be understood that it will cure all diseases of the eye, whether of recent or long standing; but its greatest power is exhibited when it is applied to old Chronic Cases of long standing, which have resisted every other effort to cure them, and which have been given up as hopeless and past being cured or relieved

He asks those afflicted in this way to give it a trial and so confident is he of its [illegible] that he instructs all his agents TO REFUND THE MONEY IF IT FAILS TO CURE.

It has, within the past year, cured cases of GRANULATED LIDS, INFLAMMATION, &c, of FIVE, SIX, NINE, [illegible] AND SEVEN [illegible] YEARS STANDING, evidence of which fact is furnished in the testimony of the following [illegible] and in the neighborhood of Harrisburg, Linn county:

[illegible] WALKER was [illegible] eyes of nine years standing Had been treated by eminent physicians during all that time without effect

Mrs. MONTGOMERY, of Harrisburg, had [illegible] eyes for over two years. For one year they were so bad that she could not work Was finally completely cured by the Ophthalmic [illegible]

E B MOORE, of the firm of Moore, Gard & Baber, of Harrisburg, had granulated lids for six years

[illegible] for over fifteen years

ROBERT RAMPEY and W. D PORTER, of Harrisburg JOHN M HOLLOWAY of Linn County; G R. WARD, of Lane County, were all [illegible], more or less severely, with diseased eyes, and were cured by the Ophthalmic Panacea

All the above named persons have given lengthy testimonials to the facts as above stated, which may be seen at the proprietor's office in Harrisburg
